MURDER TRIAL

Man 'killed ex-girlfriend after finding she was pregnant with his baby'

• Jayden Parkinson

THE man accused of murdering teenager Jayden Parkinson threatened to throw her off a bridge when she told him she was pregnant with his baby, a jury heard.

By Katriona Ormiston

katriona@taylornewspapers.co.uk

Ben Blakeley is accused of murdering his 17-year-old ex-girlfriend and burying her in his uncle's Didcot grave last year.

The 22-year-old, of Christchurch Road, Reading, pleaded not guilty to murder but has admitted manslaughter.

On Tuesday, Oxford Crown Court heard evidence from Hannah Ryan, a support worker at the Iffley Road homeless hostel One Foot Forward where Jayden was staying.

Ms Ryan said she helped Jayden take a pregnancy test and call Blakeley to tell him he was the father on December 2 last year – the day before she went missing.

Ms Ryan told the jury Jayden repeated what Blakeley said on the phone for her to hear.

Concerns raised on disability services

A REPORT released today has criticised services for people with learning disabilities in Oxfordshire for 'failures' meeting their needs.

By Adam Flinn
adam@taylornewspapers.co.uk

It comes following the death last year of 18-year-old Connor Sparrowhawk, who drowned in a bath after having a seizure.

He was a resident at a short-term treatment and assessment unit in Headington run by the Southern NHS Health Trust.

The report by Healthwatch Oxfordshire and the Oxford Family Support Network (OFSN) listed problems including the transition between children's and adult services and issues with giving families enough information about which services to use.

Plans to work on developing a peer-to-peer support network were recommended, and better communication with families.

Jan Sunman, project worker from OFSN, said: "Our purpose in writing this report was to give a voice to a very hidden group of families.

"It was to show how they struggle with fragile support systems that need to radically change in order that they and their relatives can have a basic quality of life that the rest of us take for granted.

"We are calling for significant improvements in the way that young people, like Connor, are supported.

"We would also like to explore the idea of families who have experienced such challenges being trained to support other families who are facing a similar situation."

Responding to the report, John Jackson, director of social and community services at Oxfordshire County Council, said: "We welcome this report by OFSN.

"We are keen to work with the network, as well as Healthwatch Oxfordshire, to take forward their ideas as part of the commissioning work we are doing over the summer.

"This will involve further discussions with families, carers, other organisations, and commissioners about improving services."

Lesley Munro, divisional director of the learning disability division at the Southern Health NHS Trust, said: "We welcome this report, and were very pleased to be able to provide a comment prior to publication. We will continue working with commissioners and relevant parties to deliver effective services."

To see the full report, named A Local Experience of National Concern, go to healthwatchoxfordshire.co.uk.

Fireman crosses Pacific for Parkinson's disease

AN Oxford fireman rowing across the Pacific Ocean was battling for the lead as the Journal went to press.

Darren Taylor, 42, from Charlbury, is part of the four-person team Battleborn, who are rowing from Monterey in California to Honolulu in Hawaii in the Great Pacific Race of 2,400 miles.

They started their journey on June 9, with the trip expected to take between six and eight weeks.

Darren is taking part in the race to raise awareness for Young Onset Parkinson's Disease (YOPD), and is currently involved with the launch of new charity Spotlight YOPD.

He said: "An old school friend of mine, Alex Flynn, was diagnosed with YOPD in 2008 at the age of 36.

"The public don't seem to have a real understanding of what Parkinson's is and what a younger diagnosis means.

"There could well be a cure in the next decade or so, and for those younger people with Parkinson's, they'll get their life and their future back.

"I think that's a good reason to row any ocean."

Battleborn sponsors The Athlete Centre is having a barbecue on Saturday at it's Oxford base, which will feature a live audio link up with Darren. For more details, go to theathletecentre.com.

Solar power

COWLEY: More than 11,000 solar panels have been installed on the roof of the MINI plant's bodyshop in Cowley.

The panels cover the space of five football pitches, and are expected to generate enough power for 850 homes.

Oxford East MP Andrew Smith said: "It is a massive boost for renewable energy that one of the world's most successful car manufacturers is making this investment in greener energy here in Oxford."

Boatyard plans

JERICHO: A planning application for the redevelopment of Jericho boatyard has been submitted to Oxford City Council.

It shows plans for 22 residential units, a community centre, restaurant, public square, bridge and boatyard.

The proposal, submitted by Oxford City Council, is currently being considered by the council's planning officers.

A decision is due to be made by August 14.

Hospital abseil

HEADINGTON: One hundred abseilers scaled down the 100-foot wall at the John Radcliffe Hospital this month.

The team raised £25,000 for their efforts descending the walls of the women's centre.

The money will go to hospital projects including the Blood Coagulation Research Fund, the Cancer Care Fund, the Pelvic Floor Fund, Injury Minimisation Programme for Schools, the JR's Special Care Baby Unit, and the Horton Hospital's F Ward in Banbury.

Consultant heart surgeon, George Krasolpoulos, abseiled along with supporters and staff from the Heart Centre.

Teenager sexually assaulted in Oxford church cemetery

AN 18-year-old woman was sexually assaulted as she walked in St James' Cemetery, Cowley, last Friday night.

The victim was walking in the cemetery, between Beauchamp Lane and Church Hill Road, at around 11.30pm, when she was approached by two men.

One of the men grabbed the woman, while the second man sexually assaulted her.

The woman was treated at the John Radcliffe Hospital for a black eye and scratches to her face, and has since been discharged.

Investigating officer Det Con Gurinder Sangha of Force CID in Oxford said: "I would like to appeal to anyone who may have seen anything suspicious in the area to contact police.

"I would like to reassure local residents that incidents such as these are very rare in Oxford and the Thames Valley as a whole.

"Further, please be assured that the Force is conducting a thorough investigation into the offence."

There is currently no description available of the offenders.

Anyone with information is asked to call 101, or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555111.

Jayden told police of threats before death

• From front page

Ms Ryan said: "She was saying, 'What? If I'm pregnant you are going to push me off a bridge? You're going to push me off a bridge?'

"If you lay a finger on me I will go to the police."

The pair had broken up on November 21.

Jayden filed a formal complaint to police on November 27 saying she was "terrified" because Blakeley threatened to post naked photos and videos of her on the Internet.

Her statement written the week before she died told police Blakeley said: "When you and everybody else sees them on Facebook I hope you kill yourself and jump off a bridge."

Jayden added: "I'm terrified he might send them everywhere."

Ms Ryan said after they split up she saw a big change in Jayden.

She added: "She was really quite timid and a little bit scared and wary.

"I had seen quite a dramatic change, she had definitely gained confidence. She was just starting to enjoy life to be honest."

In the weeks before Ms Ryan told the court Blakeley had forbidden Jayden to use the toilets, showers, or kitchen at the hostel until he visited her.

She said Jayden told her it was painful because she had to stop herself going to the toilet for several days and meant she had to eat biscuits and crisps in her room.

Richard Latham QC, prosecuting, said he had been violent and controlling to three previous partners between April 2007 and November last year.

He said Blakeley started a relationship with a 16-year-old in April 2007 before she became pregnant.

Mr Latham said: "Her pregnancy made him upset and he accused her of being unfaithful.

"When she was seven months pregnant he threw her down the stairs top to bottom.

"He threatened to stab her in the stomach to terminate the baby," he continued.

The day after the baby was born the jury heard Blakeley visited the hospital and started to wheel the cot away with the baby inside before the police were called.

Mr Latham added: "He would only allow her to wear make-up when she was sporting bruises to her face which he had given her."

In another relationship in 2011, the jury heard Blakeley tried to strangle his girlfriend.

Mr Latham said: "It is significant he tried to strangle her. He did this on seven or eight occasions. He used enough force to leave marks on her neck."

A post-mortem into Jayden's death revealed she died from pressure to the neck.

Jayden was found in a grave at All Saints' Church in Didcot on December 11 two weeks after she went missing.

She was killed in the countryside south of Didcot.

A 17-year-old who cannot be named has admitted perverting the course of justice but denies preventing a lawful burial.

The trial continues.

Investigations begin into death in Botley Road

OXFORD: Police are currently investigating an unexplained death of a man in his 70s at a hotel in Botley Road, after being called to the building on Tuesday.

Officers attended the River Hotel at around 12.30pm after fears were raised for a man's welfare, before discovering the body.

The death is not thought to be suspicious, and the family of the deceased has been informed.

Honours for businessmen at county awards

OXFORD: Two Oxford businessmen were honoured in the Oxfordshire Business Awards in Sandford-on-Thames last Friday.

Andrew Hammond, managing director of Oxford Products Ltd, was named Business Person of the Year, while his company was also crowned as Business of the Year.

And Dave Fletcher, managing director of digital agency White October, was awarded Young Business Person of the Year.

This was the 20th running of the Oxfordshire Business Awards, held at the Oxford Thames Four Pillars Hotel.

Andrew said: "As a business, we work extremely hard together as a team and as such it does feel rather alien to have been singled out in this way."

Dave said: "I am completely overwhelmed, and really proud to have achieved what we have at White October."

Multi-million pound funding to help fix Oxfordshire's roads

A COUNTY council cabinet member has welcomed £3.1m in government funding to help repair potholes in the country, but admitted they "wanted more".

David Nimmo Smith, cabinet member for environment, has said that the money will be used to repair damaged roads across Oxfordshire.

It comes as central government has given out £168m of grants to councils across England.

But Mr Nimmo Smith believes the money will only allow the council to repair roads to roughly the condition they were before, with only small improvements expected.

He said: "It's an opportunity to do a bit of future-proofing as well as general maintenance and bringing roads to a slightly better standard.

"But it's going to cost a lot more than £3.1m to bring the roads up to a standard people expect, which is motorway standard."

When asked how much was needed to bring the roads up to a level the council wanted, Mr Nimmo Smith added: "We did a rough estimate, and we reckon £160m, just for Oxfordshire.

"To be honest, all the money that the government was making available for all of England, we reckon we could have done with all of it!"

University gives grants to community groups

FOUR community projects based in Oxfordshire have received grants of up to £2,500 as part of an Oxford University funding initiative.

By Adam Flinn
adam@taylornewspapers.co.uk

The Osney Lock Hydro scheme, Oxfordshire Play Association, Alice's Day 2014 and Cowley News were selected for grants in the university's Community Fund.

The fund is a small community grants scheme that was set up by the university last year.

It has so far given money to groups including Oxford Open Doors, the Pegasus Theatre and Cowley Road Carnival, as well as the latest announcements.

A total of £2,500 was given to the development of the Osney Lock Hydro group, which is building Oxfordshire's first community hydro scheme in the Thames at Osney Lock.

Saskya Huggins, director of Osney Lock Hydro, said: "We are thrilled to have received a grant from Oxford University.

"As well as generating renewable energy, the project offers a platform from which we can tell the story of our river."

Alice's Day 2014, a project coordinated by the Story Museum, in Pembroke Street, has been awarded £2,000 towards the cost of its school workshops.

Staff member Alex Cole said: "Thanks to support from the Community Fund, over 200 Oxford primary school children will be breaking codes and meeting the Mad Hatter as part of the education work for Alice's Day."

The Oxfordshire Play Association were granted £1,500 towards the cost of a new 'natural play' area, to be created next to the South Oxford Adventure Playground.

Manager Martin Gillett said: "We want to encourage children and young people to play outside in natural settings.

"This will develop their health, wellbeing and life skills while also opening their eyes to the amazing world of mother nature and the environment."

Community newspaper Cowley News was also given £2,000.

Michael Sibly, chair of the Community Fund Management Group, said: "Oxford University plays an enormous part in the life of this city and region, and we want to help support the tremendous community activity that goes on."

Brookes building hoping to make national shortlist

AN OXFORD Brookes University teaching block could be going up against London's iconic building The Shard for a prestigious architecture prize later this year.

The John Henry Brookes Building was given a national award by the Royal Institute of British Architects (RIBA) last week – one of 56 buildings in Europe to get one.

And the university will now be hoping it makes the shortlist for the RIBA Stirling Prize for excellence in British architecture, with the winner being awarded £20,000.

Professor Janet Beer, vice-chancellor at Oxford Brookes University, said: "The John Henry Brookes building provides our students with inspirational spaces to match our excellent teaching, support and research."

The shortlist will be revealed on July 17.

Parents and Children Together received £23,400 for their work with children who have been the victim of domestic violence, and Refugee Resource were awarded £38,760 for their counselling efforts.

It comes as part of Mr Stansfeld's first round of funding from the Victims of Crime and Restorative Justice Grant.

"I am delighted with the quality of bids and breadth of services that this first round of grant funding has attracted," said Mr Stansfeld.

Honours for Kingfisher team at national awards

A JOINT team that was set up to tackle child sexual exploitation following the Operation Bullfinch case has won a prestigious national award.

By Adam Flinn
adam@taylornewspapers.co.uk

The Kingfisher team was chosen as the winner of the children's services award at a ceremony hosted by local government trade magazine Municipal Journal (MJ).

Around 20 people from Thames Valley Police and Oxfordshire County Council make up the team, which is based at Cowley police station.

They work closely with potential victims to investigate and detect crime, and were honoured at the MJ awards for being "an innovative and committed team".

Melinda Tilley, the county council's cabinet member for children, education and families, was pleased with the news.

She said: "The Kingfisher team involves staff from Thames Valley Police and Oxfordshire County Council's social care teams working closely together with social workers.

"Professionals from other agencies, including health, also have an important presence.

"By working side by side in this way, Oxfordshire is well placed to combat and disrupt those who abuse and sexually exploit young people.

"They are dedicated professionals with a determination to protect young people.

"This award is due recognition for their efforts, and their work will continue."

The team was set up in November 2012, after investigations into the Bullfinch case had begun a year earlier.

Det Insp Laura MacInnes, from Thames Valley Police, said: "We are very pleased that the Kingfisher team has been recognised in winning this award.

"The strength of this team is in the co-location and the ability to share information with partners really quickly to achieve the best results for children."

The award comes as six men were arrested in Banbury on Tuesday in relation to information about child sexual exploitation gathered by the Kingfisher Team.

City council is 'best achieving' in the UK

OXFORD City Council also received recognition at the MJ Awards, as it was named as the Best Achieving Council in the UK.

The authority was praised for its performance improvement, as it beat off competition from the highly commended Buckinghamshire County Council.

Bob Price, leader of the city council, said: "Winning this top award is a massive tribute to everyone who works for the council, and for our many partners.

"On behalf of all councillors, I would like to thank all the staff for their personal contribution to the achievement of the high quality services that we are delivering to the people of the city," he continued.

"The award reflects our achievements over the past few years – now we must build on those firm foundations and make Oxford an even better place to live and work."

Peter Solman, the council's chief executive, added: "Oxford City Council has won the most important award at the local government Oscars.

"Oxford is now seen as one of the best councils nationally, and I would like to thank everyone for their hard work in achieving this."

Last Thursday's ceremony was the 11th staging of the MJ awards, with previous winners for Best Achieving Council including Derby City Council, Sunderland City Council and London Borough of Harrow.

HEADINGTON: Cash and spirits were stolen from The Six Bells public house on Beaumont Road on June 15.

Between 4.15am and 5.20am an offender forced the ground floor window open and climbed into the pub.

Once inside, a fruit machine was forced open and cash was stolen, while more money and spirits were also taken.

The offender, who was a white man and wearing dark clothing, left through the same window and disappeared down the alleyway leading to Trinity Road.

Run for charity

OXFORD: A charity supporting research into a rare genetic disease arrived in the city last Sunday after its members completed a 100-mile run.

David French, founder of the Niemann Pick Research Centre, along with his son's godfather Tim Wallis and scientists Paul Fineran and Allie Colaco, completed the run from Cardiff to Oxford University over four days.

William, Mr French's son, suffers from Niemann Pick Disease, and all money raised goes towards research in laboratories in Oxford and Cardiff Universities.

Robber targets city taxi driver

POLICE are appealing for witnesses after a taxi driver was robbed while he was parked in The Slade, Oxford, last Wednesday.

Two offenders approached the taxi at around 1.15am and threatened the 32-year-old driver with a knife, before stealing some money and fleeing in the direction of Leiden Road.

The victim sustained scratches to his face and hands in the incident.

The first suspect is white, in his early 20s, 5ft 8ins tall and of a skinny build with short blond hair and a tattoo on his neck.

And the second is white, 6ft tall, of stocky build and was wearing a dark hooded top and dark baseball cap.

PC Paul Jones from Oxford police station said: "Even though this incident happened early in the morning, it is possible that people may have seen or heard it.

"There are a lot of residential properties in the area and there would have been a lot of noise."

'Cheapskates' become online sensation

A COUPLE from Oxford who are attempting to fill a World Cup sticker album with their own drawings have become an Internet hit.

By Jack Johnson
jack@taylornewspapers.co.uk

Alex and Sian Pratchett, who live on the Iffley Road, started drawing players on the first day of the tournament on June 12, and aim to fill all 639 spaces by the final on July 13.

The couple have been posting their progress on a blog called Panini Cheapskates and set up a Twitter account, which has attracted over 900 followers.

They are now even getting picture requests from football fans all over the world.

Alex said: "It is baffling that it's got a bit out of hand over the past couple of days."

The 30-year-old said he tried to complete the 1994 World Cup sticker album when he was 10, and after his friends had bought one for this year, he couldn't resist.

He added: "I came home one day with the album and I said to Sian 'how about as a project me and you try and draw them and that way we can do it for free'.

"It's moving quickly, it's strange but it's fun.

"I've sat in front of every single game, but I've barely even seen a kick because I'm looking at a bit of paper on my lap."

The couple have drawn 130 of the stickers so far and although Alex admits most of them are "terrible", he said he was proud of his drawing of Uruguay striker Luis Suarez.

He continued: "Some of the early ones are pretty terrible but it seems that the worse the drawing, the better the reaction.

"People seem to prefer the ones that are outright awful, but if we don't get better, then there must be something wrong with us.

"I'm quite proud of the Luis Suarez I did. It's more recognisable than the other ones we've done.

"Sian is a bit better than me so I need her to do the England team because I have done a few of those and they are all terrible.

"There is a picture of Steven Gerrard and Frank Lampard together and they look ridiculous, so I need her to salvage that page of the annual."

You can track Alex and Sian's progress on paninicheapskates.wordpress.com or follow them on Twitter via @CheapPanini.

Dawn's 30 Million Minutes

ACTRESS and comedian Dawn French discusses her life and career in her first ever solo tour, coming to Oxford's New Theatre next Thursday.

By Adam Flinn
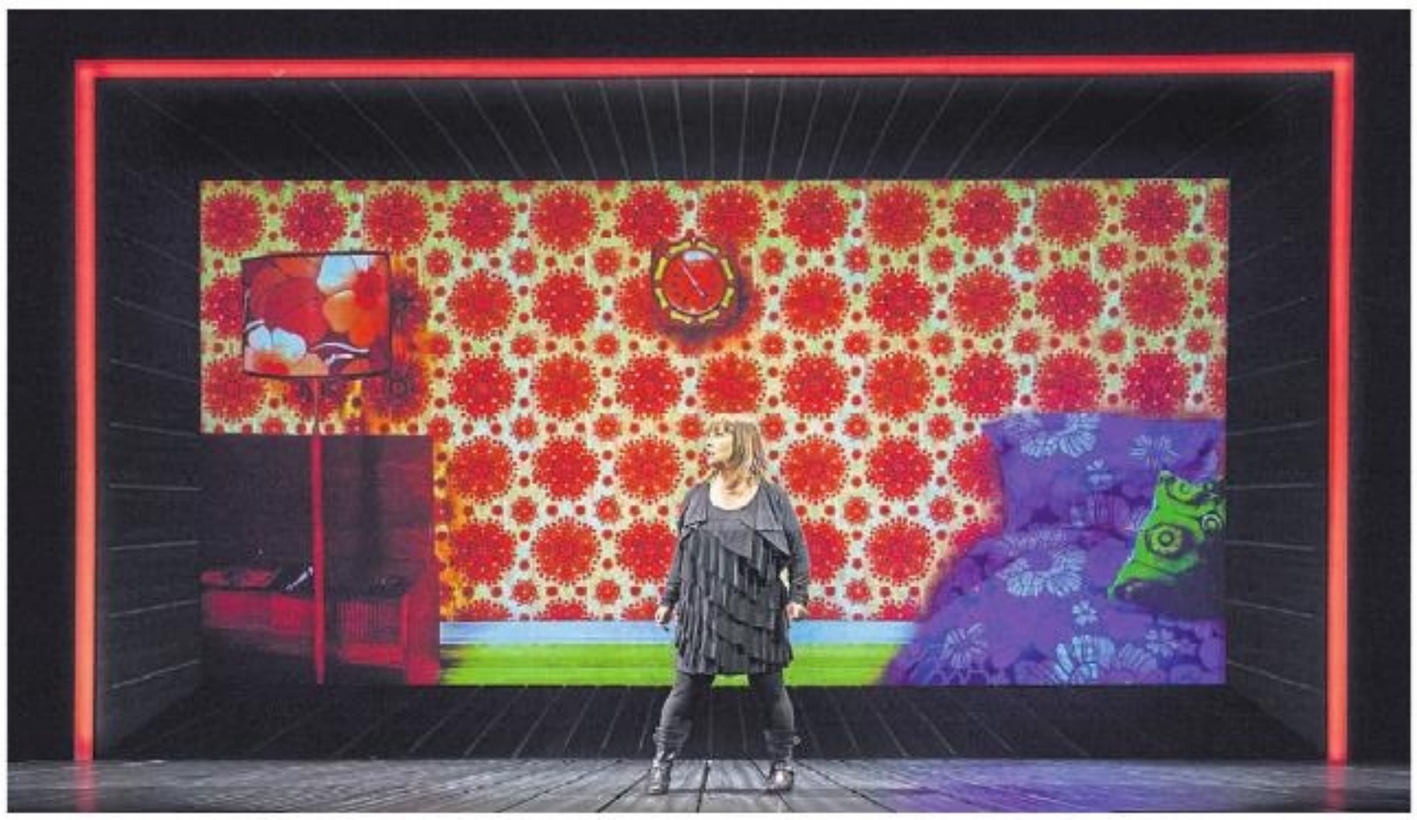
adam@taylornewspapers.co.uk

Dawn is well known for her performances as one half of French and Saunders and for playing Geraldine Granger in The Vicar of Dibley, in what has been an extensive and varied career.

And she describes her tour '30 Million Minutes' as a monologue of her life, rather than a stand-up show or a play.

"It's a slide show to an extent, but not just a slide show," said Dawn. "It's not like your awful, most feared auntie who's just come back from Egypt where you have to sit and watch everything.



"It's quite autobiographical, so I show you the people that have made me, so to speak.

"There's quite a lot about my mum and dad."

The show is called '30 Million Minutes' because that is roughly how long Dawn has lived for.

It begins with Dawn talking about life growing up in Cornwall, her father's suicide when she was 18, before starting stage school and meeting double-act partner Jennifer Saunders.

Dawn has worked with director Michael Grandage to create the show, who she has been wanting to work with for many years.

"I could have asked Fatty Saunders, but I thought, 'I'm actually going to ask a proper grown-up theatre person," Dawn added.

"But I've always wanted to do this and I think I've dodged it a bit, because I'm aware that it's a risk.

"I keep saying to Michael, 'I need to take this out', and he says 'absolutely not, do not push it away from you. Own it and be confident about that', so that's what I've done."

Dawn's show starts at 7.30pm. For booking details, go to newtheatreoxford.org.uk.

Dancing with Angelina

ANGELINA Ballerina pirouettes onto the Oxford New Theatre stage next week, with a brand new stage show written and performed especially for children.

Full of music and singing, The Mousical sees Angelina and her friends given the chance to appear in their favourite television programme 'Dancing With Mice'.

By Adam Flinn
adam@taylornewspapers.co.uk

But they struggle to decide what to perform as everyone has a mix of ideas for the show, and it's up to Angelina to make sure that everything goes ahead smoothly.

"The response has been brilliant," said Miranda Larson, writer and director of the show.

"Most importantly for me is what the children think of it, and I'm always amazed that children manage to dance in the aisles while following the story.

"I think we're all really proud of what it's achieved so far, and hopefully we will achieve a bit more yet."

The stage show is based off the latest Angelina Ballerina television series, although it still draws inspiration from the books as well.

Angelina has proven popular since she was first created by author Katharine Holabird in the 1980s, with the latest series of the television show featuring 40 episodes.

Speaking about the show's popularity, Miranda added: "The age of the characters on screen is seven-years-old, so for that younger audience, it's aspirational but at the same time going through things the children go through.

"But in the backdrop of that, it's also about expressing yourself, hard work, and having a go.

"This show's not just ballet either, we've got a lot of contemporary styles as well, including jazz, tap and hip hop as well as the ballet.

"We always invite the audience to get up and dance along with the cast, and just have fun really."

The first show is at 4.30pm on Monday, with three further performances on Tuesday. For more details or to book tickets, go to newtheatreoxford.org.uk.

Both shows start at 7.30pm.

"The ocean plays a very important role in the Earth's climate system through storage and transport of heat, fresh water, and carbon. Dr Gelderloos will discuss the principle ocean circulation patterns and how they affect well known climatic phenomena such as El Niño and the hydrological cycle. Furthermore, as increasing greenhouse gas concentrations in the atmosphere affect the circulation in the ocean, this will feed back onto the climate system. Based on what we know about how the oceans affect the Earth's climate, what changes may we expect? Dr Gelderloos is a physical oceanographer interested in subpolar and polar oceans. After specializing in fluid dynamics during a BSc and MSc in Civil Engineering at the University of Twente (Netherlands), she studied deep water formation in the Labrador Sea at KNMI/University of Utrecht for her PhD. She now work as a Postdoctoral Research Associate at the Department of Earth Sciences, studying ocean dynamics in the Canadian Arctic."

Soul EV joins a host of models to win top environmental certificate

New Kia impresses at awards

THE all-new Kia Soul EV has proved to be a big hit, as the latest member of the Kia family has achieved a whole-life environmental certificate.

The TÜV (Technischer Überwachungs-Verein or the Technical Inspection Association) were impressed with the safety features of the car, which is to prevent humans and the environment from potential hazards.

The Soul EV now joins a list of Kia models to have the certificate, bringing the number of models to 11, since its first LCA award back in 2008 to the Cee'd.

The latest Kia model, achieved the award due to its environmental friendly use of materials, tailpipe emissions and recycling.

When comparing the make to it's diesel counterpart (which is currently on sale in some European countries), the all-new electric car scored impressively on its 'Global Warming Potential', emitting 39.7 per cent fewer greenhouse gases, such as carbon dioxide and methane, over the whole life of the vehicle.

The Korean manufacturers have been known to produce many cars that will benefit the environment, with every single Kia product since 2006 being made to suit the LCA (Life Cycle Assessment) standards. Hence, why 11 of their models have won this award in the last six years.

This more environmentally friendly development process covers five major steps:

- Detailed physical analysis of the product during the development process to verify recyclability
- Streamlining of the manufacturing process through improvements in use of materials and simplification of parts design
- Use of eco-friendly materials
- Utilisation of 3D drawings at the design stage to verify recyclability
- Application of a check-sheet to evaluate the vehicle's environmental credentials throughout its lifecycle

The Soul EV, which has already been released in its native Korea, will be released in the UK later on this year. This car will also make American history, as it will be the first ever car all-electric vehicle by Kia to be used in the United States when it is released in August.

• The new Kia Soul EV has been awarded a whole-life environmental certificate

Sixth for Welsh in debut competition appearance

By Adam Flinn

• London Welsh captain James Lewis (second right) lines up alongside fellow World Club 10s captains in Singapore

LONDON Welsh's week in Singapore ended with a sixth-place finish at the inaugural World Club 10s, with two wins and four defeats.

Welsh were the sole English representatives in the eight-team competition, which also included French squad Biarritz Olympique and eventual tournament winners The Blues from New Zealand.

Day one of the competition on Saturday got off to the worst possible start for Welsh, as they were thrashed 26-0 by Samoa Water President 10.

They recovered well to beat Biarritz 26-5 in their second match, before a 27-7 loss to The Blues meant The Exiles finished third in Pool A.

This set up a quarter final clash with South Pacific side The Dragons on Sunday, but Welsh were comprehensively beaten 43-12.

Losing quarter-finalists then faced each other for the Plate, with Welsh winning their semi-final fixture against Italy's Petrarca Rugby, for a rematch with Samoa Water President in the final.

But despite a better showing it was not to be for Welsh, as they lost 28-14 for a sixth-place finish.

Back row forward Ollie Stedman said: "We started our first Pool A game against Samoa, who were as strong and physical as ever.

"The score line flattered them ever so slightly but it definitely was an eye-opener for the boys as to what the standard would be and how we would get punished for not keeping the ball.

"It was a vastly improved performance [against Biarritz] by us, allowing the ball to do the work and it ended up in a convincing and satisfying win."

Ahead of the Plate final, Stedman revealed that four players pulled up sick or injured – "not ideal", according to the 23-year-old.

"In typical London Welsh fashion we made do with only two subs and dug in," Stedman said.

"We were leading the game 14-7 until three minutes into the second half, where they managed to score three tries in quick succession.

"Fatigue perhaps played a key part in running out of steam. However, the boys have given a great account of themselves.

"I personally feel it's a great thing to get London Welsh on the global map and out there to be seen. Hopefully we manage to go back next year."

Barcelos back for second spell

FORMER Oxford City striker Felipe Barcelos has rejoined the club, after a spell at Italian Serie D side ASD Santhià Calcio.

Barcelos made 125 appearances and scored 42 goals for City over five years, before leaving the Conference North for Italy 12 months ago.

City have also announced their first four friendlies, as they face Oxford United at home on July 15, before trips to Wantage Town, Didcot Town and Chippenham Town on July 19, 22 and 26 respectively.

Smith ready for Assen challenge

MOTOGP rider Bradley Smith will be hoping for better luck at round eight of the championship at Assen on Saturday, after only finishing 10th at the Spanish circuit of Catalunya last time out.

Smith heads to the Netherlands on the back of a promising test in Spain following the last race, where he was second behind championship leader Marc Marquez.

"Hopefully Assen will be the springboard to get my season back on track," said Smith.

The Oxford-born rider is currently 10th in the championship standings with 40 points, 135 behind the unbeaten Honda of Marquez.

Burnell brings in Premiership experience to squad

FORMER England under-20 hooker Koree Britton and experienced centre Tim Molenaar have been named as the latest signings to join London Welsh.

Britton was a member of the side which won the 2011 Six Nations Grand Slam and the 2012 Six Nations title at under-20 level, also featuring in the Junior World Cups of the same years.

The 22-year-old ended last season with Northampton Saints, where he made one Premiership appearance as a replacement in their 74-13 win over London Wasps.

And Molenaar, 33, joins Welsh from Harlequins, making 19 appearances for the side last season.

He was part of the Gloucester squad that lifted the LV= Cup in 2011 and reached the Premiership play-offs in 2010/11.

Exiles' head coach Justin Burnell said: "Koree will add some serious competition to an already talented group of hookers.

"He brings Premiership experience and has the size and physicality we are looking for in building our squad of forwards," he continued.

"Tim is another player with a lot of Premiership experience that we had targeted.

"He will provide a physicality that will complement our other centres and give us various combinations in the midfield."

BRONZE FOR KATIE IN WOMEN'S EIGHT

GB crew fend off Chinese team to take third at World Rowing Cup

OXFORD rower Katie Greves secured a bronze at the World Rowing Cup II in France last weekend, as the GB team finished top of the medal table.

By Adam Flinn

adam@taylornewspapers.co.uk

Greves was part of the women's eight that took silver in Belgrade at the European Rowing Championships earlier this year.

She kept her seat for the weekend at Aiguebelette, alongside Rosamund Bradbury, Zoe Lee, Donna Etiebet, Jess Eddie, Caragh McMurty and cox Zoe de Toledo.

They got off to a strong start and battled with China throughout the race for third position, eventually beating them by just over a tenth of a second.

"We were very pleased to get a good start but perhaps our rhythm wasn't as good as in Belgrade," said Greves.

"It's a bit frustrating as we know that we can do better than that in the middle of the race."

Fellow Oxford rower Frances Houghton had a tougher time at the competition, as she and double sculls partner Vicky Thornley could only finish fifth.

At the halfway stage they had been sitting fourth and challenging for the bronze medal position, before dropping back as the final sprint moved away.

And another city rower, Olivia Carnegie-Brown, also came home fifth with partner Monica Relph in their B final of the pairs, finishing 16 seconds behind winners New Zealand.

GB Rowing Team performance director Sir David Tanner said: "Our rowers have really stepped up for the finals day as they did at the European Championships.

"There were some really impressive medals showing how savvy our team is when it comes to top level racing.

"We've had some stand-out performances from our top rowers and some real steps from some of our new talent. Overall it's been a great weekend."

First day's training for scholars

EIGHT Oxford United scholars reported for their first day of training earlier this week, as they hope to break into the professional ranks.

Centre-back Cian McCormack, midfielders Seth Humphries and Kieran Andrews, and forwards George Jeacock and Luke Hastings have made the step up from last season's under-16s.

And defender Drew Ricketts joins from Walsall, while right-back Miles Welch-Hayes and midfielder Lewis Hayden were given the opportunity after impressing in the under-17 Academy side.

They join second year scholars Eddie Cavanagh, Freddie Grant, Robbie Cundy, AJ George and Muctaru Conte in the squad for this season.

"It's an exciting day for all of them," said youth team coach Chris Allen.

"They are within touching distance of being professional footballers but now they have to work harder than ever before to impress us.

"It's about ability and desire but also attitude, intelligence and having that bit of self-belief to push on.

"Every single one of them now has a wonderful opportunity to make their dreams come true and become professional footballers."
